Guatemala's President Is Ousted; Coup Is Pointed At Communists

By Immigration Service

Exiles Restricted To Miami Area

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Exiles reacted angrily Sunday to U. S. government restrictions designed to halt commando raids on Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba. Orders not to leave the Miami area issued to persons considered prospective raiders "convert us into enemies of the American government more than of the very Communist government of Cuba we are trying to fight," said the head of a Bay of Pigs veteran organization. Dagoverto Darias, chief of the Liberation Forces of Giron Beach, added, "It seems we in the United States are more closely guarded than those inside Cuba." Eighteen exiles received notices Friday from U. S. immigration agents not to leave Dade County, a 2,500-square mile area including Miami and environs, or the continental United States. Edwin Guthman, public information officer for the Justice Department, said the 18 were served notice following a meeting in Miami of representatives of the Coast Guard, the State Department, the Customs Bureau, the FBI and the Immigration Service. Guthman did not identify the

PRESIDENT'S CLASSMATE—While President Kennedy wrestles with international problems, Robert Freeman, a Harvard classmate of the Chief Executive, tackles the problems of a plumber in the small White Mountain village of Jackson, N. H. Freeman, who received a B. A. degree in President's class of 1940, first taught history, English and Latin in a preparatory school. After four years' service in the Army Medical Corps, he went to the mountains and became an innkeeper. Forced to learn plumbing, he decided it was more profitable than innkeeping, and now does it full time. (AP Wirephoto)

Cronies Feel They Can Do Better Job

GUATEMALA (AP) — Guatemala's armed forces ousted President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes on Sunday in a swift coup aimed at cracking down harder on Communists. The 67-year-old president—himself a leader of the Central American anti-Communist, anti-Castro movement—was flown in an air force plane to Nicaragua, where he declared: "What is going on in Guatemala is for her own good and for the good of the rest of Central America." The deposed president's cronies in the government made plain they felt they could do a better job than Ydigoras in combating Communist infiltration and subversion in the populous Central American republic. Attempts Comeback The coup, apparently was touched off by the secret return from exile Friday night of leftist former President Juan Jose Arvalo to attempt a political comeback. Ydigoras' wife accompanied him into exile. Ydigoras, 67, is a former general who would have completed next spring a six-year term in the presidency, to which he was elected by Guatemala's Congress on Feb. 12, 1958. Tanks rumbled in the capital's streets and warplanes droned overhead in martial accompaniment to the Sabbath pealing of Roman Catholic church bells. The nation was reported calm. Col. Enrique Peralta Azurdia, Ydigoras' defense minister since Dec. 6, 1960, took over as chief executive with powers to rule by decree. Peralta, who in the past has

After 114-Day News Blackout New York Newspapers Finally Hit Streets

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York newspaper strike is over. The city's record 114-day blackout of eight newspapers ended Sunday as the last of four striking unions accepted a new contract with publishers. The first paper back on the newsstands was the Daily Mirror. About 100 persons converged on a Times Square newsstand and purchased 250 copies of the Mirror within a few minutes. Others waited for more. The other three

Six Persons Die In Towanda Fire

TOWANDA, Pa. (AP)—A mother and her five children were killed Sunday in a pre-dawn fire which destroyed the interior of their two-story frame home, but the father survived although critically burned in an effort to save the family. The father, Gerald Prymer, 35, was reported in extremely critical condition in a hospital. Dead Identified The dead are: Mrs. Barbara Prymer, 35; and the five Prymer children—Bonnie Sue, 4; Charles Edmund, 3; Genevieve, 2; Dorothy, 1; and John, nine days old. All were sleeping in second floor bedrooms. The parents gathered the children and went to a window. Prymer climbed out onto a porch and told his wife to hand the children out, but just then the porch collapsed, dropping the father into a heap of burning debris. Prymer squirmed out of the debris but was badly cut. Bleeding and his clothes afire, he went about 200 yards to the home of his step-father, William Rowe, who summoned an ambulance. Gerald Vickery, Bradford County coroner, said the deaths were caused by suffocation and fire. Authorities said the fire apparently broke out in the basement. They were investigating the cause. They said defective electrical wiring might have caused it. Mrs. Theda Connor, a neighbor, said she was awakened by crackling sounds and looked out the window. She said the whole back of the Prymer house seemed ablaze, and the front door blew out. The dead will be buried in a single grave Monday in Bradford County Memorial Park. Memorial services will be held later. Towanda Fire Chief Ivan Jones said "the house was engulfed in flames when we got there." "We didn't know there was anyone inside," he added, "and weren't able to find out until we knocked the flames down."

Lenten Meditation

Stephen F. Bortlik
Presiding Minister
East Stroudsburg Congregation
Jehovah's Witnesses

THE BIBLE and practical experience teach placing matters of greatest importance first in our lives. Because Lent commands much attention from professed Christians, the question is appropriately asked, How does Lent rate as to bringing one into a correct relationship with God? Jesus never commanded his followers to make an observance of his forty-day fast in the wilderness; in fact, the word "Lent" is not in the Bible. However, at the end of the forty days he did face an issue involving a subject of great importance to all Christians, namely, the "kingdom of God."

Not only did he reject Satan's substitute offer of "all the kingdoms of the world and their glory" in preference to this heavenly kingdom he was to receive from his Father but he thereafter filled his life with preaching "the kingdom of the heavens has drawn near." (Matthew 4:8,17).

Further stressing the importance of this matter by prophesying, Jesus drew attention to what his true followers would be concerned with in our day when he said in Matthew 24:14: "And this good news of the kingdom will be preached in all the inhabited earth for a witness to all the nations; and then the end will come."

Christians who are imitating their exemplar in this preaching and teaching work can see the importance of fulfilling this command; for even many who are devoted to Lent cannot so much as define the "kingdom of God."

It can truly be said that when one places hope in Jehovah's kingdom as the means by which Christ Jesus will bring peace and security to mankind he has then placed first in his life a matter which is both Biblical and of transcending importance.

Union Is Ready To Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is expected to step in this week to block for 60 days the threat of a nationwide railroad strike. The mandate of a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision is due to become effective Monday, leaving the railroads free to announce the manpower cuts they have been urging for nearly four years to realize some $600 million in annual savings. Five unions representing 200,000 rail operating employees are ready to call a strike to coincide with the effective date of the industry's job cuts. Kennedy may not even wait for the unions to set a formal strike date before declaring an emergency under terms of the Railway Labor Act. This involves naming a special board to study the problem and make settlement recommendations in 30 days, after which both sides must negotiate for another 30-day period. The President is reported ready to name a group of prominent citizens to serve on the board which is likely to spend more time trying to settle the controversy than in attempting to assess the long-debated issues anew. Kennedy's board quite likely will accept most of the recommendations made after a full year study by a 15-man commission named by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Publishers Warned Publishers had warned before Sunday's vote that a second rejection would prolong the strike indefinitely—that there was nothing on which to negotiate further. The $12.63 settlement formula had been worked out by Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who proposed it in mediating the marathon labor dispute that originally led to the newspaper shutdown—the strike of AFL-CIO International Typographical Union printers. By their action, the engravers followed the precedent set by the printers, who first turned the proposed settlement down before accepting it a week later. The engravers also had the support of the powerful ITU—a support won because the engravers had supported the printers' strike for 14 weeks before going on strike themselves March 18. Wagner, who laid aside all but the most important city business for 65 days to mediate the complicated dispute, told a news conference this was a great day not only for newspaper employees but for the public.

Pilot Calls Survival A Miracle

WATSON LAKE, Yukon Territory (AP)—The survival of Helen Klaben and Ralph Flores was called a miracle Sunday by a man who inspected the wreckage of their light plane in Canada's frozen north. Miss Klaben, 21, now recuperating at her home in Brooklyn, N.Y., and Flores, 42, hospitalized at Whitehorse, Y.T., were rescued last week after being marooned 50 days—42 of them without food. "It's a miracle they lived," said helicopter pilot Chuck Ford on his return from flying a team of Canadian Department of Transport investigators to the crash scene. Ford said both wings of Flores' plane were torn off when it rammed a mountainside Feb. 4 near the Yukon-British Columbia border about 75 miles from here. One of the wings could not be found. The engine was twisted under the fuselage and the forward gasoline tank was crushed.

'Powerless To Act' Canada Faces Indecisive Election, Minority Rule

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada appears to be resigned to the grim prospect that another indecisive election will bring it a minority government powerless to act on defense, unemployment and other vital issues. This would virtually rule out an early decision on the long-delayed question of accepting nuclear warheads on Canadian soil—the issue which led to the fall of Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker's government last month. It also could delay action on pressing economic problems—unless the winning party achieves a working arrangement with one or more of the opposition parties. Many Canadians are concerned over the continuation of this political stalemate which has kept the country in a state of uncertainty for nine months. "There may never have been a time when there were greater misgivings," says the influential Montreal Gazette. "If this comes to pass," says the Toronto Star, "Canada will be doomed to political instability. No party will be able to govern without the help of at least one other party, and this means that no strong policies can be pursued." There have been rumors of a move for a coalition between the two major parties if neither wins a majority. At this stage it seems improbable. At the moment, certainly, neither can afford to suggest that it might lose the election. A more likely election result could mean that the Liberals, with a minority in Commons, would have to turn to a third party, the Socialist New Democrats, for support. Such support is not likely on the nuclear issue. The New Democrat leader, J. C. Douglas, opposes the acceptance of nuclear weapons under any conditions. The Liberals have said they would accept them to the extent necessary to fulfill previous commitments. The basic difficulty seems to be a lack of confidence in the two major parties, which traditionally rule the country. Canada has always left the governing to a single party—even though this was done sometimes under a constant threat that the opposition would force a new election. The most successful example of this practice was the administration of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, who carried on without even controlling the largest number of seats in Parliament. He had a stable government and put through an impressive program, including Canada's first old-age pension plan. In the present campaign neither Diefenbaker nor Pearson appears to have been able to inspire the degree of confidence needed to heal the divisions in the country and to rally any great measure of enthusiasm. Sen. Martin J. Silvert, D-Phila., said flatly that he was opposed to the sales tax increases. Minority leader Charles R. Weiner took a wait-and-see attitude, although he said he was "pretty sure the Democrats would be against any type of tax on clothing." House Speaker W. Stuart Helm said he would not "prejudge" the budget until he saw it. The Governor will review his budget decisions for the GOP legislative leaders Monday morning at the weekly leadership breakfast. The legislature will not be idle, however, as it awaits the Governor's 2 p. m. budget message before a joint session. Scranton's office said the administration plans to introduce a package of industrial development bills this week.

Budget Message Is High On Lawmakers Calendar

HARRISBURG (AP)—The General Assembly reconvenes in Harrisburg Monday, but the highlight of the week's calendar comes Tuesday when Gov. Scranton delivers his budget message. First reports indicate the Governor's budget will be some $130 million higher than the current appropriations of $1,064 billion. It was said that Scranton was considering two alternative plans to raise the necessary revenue: 1—A 1/2 per cent increase in the current 4 per cent sales tax, extending the base to include clothing; plus an increase of one or two cents in the six-cent-a-pack cigarette tax. 2—Retain the present 4 per cent sales tax, but extend the base to include clothing, trade-in values, across the bar sales of beer and liquor and cigarettes and also impose excise taxes on cosmetics and soft drinks.

Phi Sig Installed At ESSC

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Phi Sig Club of East Stroudsburg State College became the Beta Pentaton Chapter of the Phi Sigma Kappa National Fraternity at formal induction ceremonies last Saturday evening.

At the special induction banquet held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg, 33 students and their advisors, Mr. Philip L. Leighton, assistant Professor of Education, became charter members of the new Phi Sigma Kappa chapter.

Heading the induction ceremonies were Mr. Robert B. Abbe, National president; Mr. Herbert L. Brown, National secretary-treasurer; Mr. John Silms, vice-president of Region II; and Mr. Randolph B. McMullen, District Governor for the Beta Pentaton Chapter.

An induction team from the Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., was present for the local installation. Mr. Patrick Coletti, President of the Iota Chapter at Stevens Institute, led the visiting delegation.

Special guests attending the banquet were Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, President of East Stroudsburg State College; Eugene Martin, Dean of Men, also from East Stroudsburg State College; Dr. Eugene Powers, Head of the Education Department; Mr. William Eden and Mr. George Johnson of the college faculty; Mr. John Fallon, President of the Sigma Pi Fraternity; Mr. Allan Pollakusky of the Iota Eta Theta Fraternity. Originally organized as the Phi Sig Club during March of 1962, thirty-three students representing all the curricula at East Stroudsburg State College have worked diligently for national acceptance.

Public projects sponsored by the Phi Sig Club include Thanksgiving baskets for the needy and annual Christmas parties for handicapped children.

Torrance Nears Parole

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton commuted the prison term of former Pennsylvania Turnpike Commissioner James F. Torrance, convicted in 1957 of conspiring to swindle the road agency of $19.5 million.

The governor, acting on recommendation of the State Pardon Board, commuted the minimum term of Torrance's 2 to 4-year term, making the prisoner eligible to apply for parole.

Torrance, former GOP state chairman, was one of five men convicted in the toll road case. They were accused of conspiracy in the filling of abandoned mine voids under the Northeast Extension of the turnpike.

'Free Lancers' Give Comedy, Harmony

THE "Free Lancers" of Dundalk, Maryland will serve up "Comedy with Harmony" when they appear on the annual "Nite of Harmony" sponsored by the Stroudsburg Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

The event will be staged on April 6 in the East Stroudsburg High School Auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

The quartet represents an aggregate of 42 years of Barbershop singing, although this combination has been singing together only two years. It developed from an "open end" group of wood shed addicts whose purpose was to demonstrate quartet singing and entertain at meetings of the then newly formed Dundalk Chapter. During four years, 17 men sang on a more or less formal basis with the Free Lancers.

Inventive participants in District competition, they are frequently called upon to entertain at the Conventions, although their contest record is not imposing.

Because of their distinctive costuming, they are highly photogenic, and are conceded to be the most photographed quartet in the District. Honorary members of the quartet (and there are six to prove it) include Governor Tawes and Mayor Grady, Morton Downey, Peter Lawford, Jim Farley, Dan Cuthbert, Jayne Mansfield, and Rosemary Clooney.

The Educational background of the group includes degrees from the universities of Illinois and Maryland, and Georgia Tech. Service Affiliations are two Army and two Coast Guard. Three of the members are married, and between them are the proud parents of nine children.

Although billed as "The Quartet with Absolutely No Talent", this is not exactly factual. Actually, the tenor is a social gadabout par excellence, the bass can talk more and say less than anyone out of politics, the baritone is one of the Society's outstanding gourmands, and the lead has five children.

Lawmakers Vote On Major Bills

REPUBLICAN representative J. Russell Eshback of Pike County and Democratic representative Van D. Yetter of Monroe County voted in line with most legislation in the state assembly last week.

Both voted yes to a bill prohibiting judges from performing the duties of an arbiter. The bill was passed.

Both were favorable to a bill designating Rt. 15 as "The Blue and Gray Highway." It was also passed.

The assembly defeated a bill to include food service administrators of school districts in the "professional employee" and "teacher" categories. Both local representatives turned thumbs down on the legislation.

Both voted for a bill to permit county commissioners to make additional appropriations to agricultural or horticultural societies. It was passed.

Yetter voted against and Eshback for a bill that was passed requiring complete accounting of all receipts and disbursements of political committees.

Senator William Z. Scott, local senator, voted yes to all the major legislation he faced last week. All the bills were passed.

They included bills to require licensed boxers to be covered by insurance; repeal name and address requirements for trucks and trailers; provide for "certificates of exemption" for certain farm vehicles for travel from farm to farm and on highways in certain instances.

Also bills to require only one qualified physician to be a member of a third class city's board of health; make it illegal to drive without lights to avoid identification, and establish a rate of compensation for borough councilmen based on population.

Historic Replicas Offered

A NEW spirit of '76, amplified in the hearts and minds of more than 180,000 Americans is needed everywhere, and that means in the Poconos too.

With this in mind, the Daily Record makes the Americana Historic Document Series available to readers as a public service.

The big question, of course, is why.

Why does America need a new spirit of '76? Where did we misplace the old one? The answer is as old as the Declaration of Independence — and as new as the rocket trail that perhaps even now is hovering over Cape Canaveral.

We need constant reminders of our national heritage linking the past, present, and future. The message of the Americana Document Series taps the wellspring of patriotism, uniting all Americans in the common cause of freedom and justice.

The message of the documents can be as loud as the cannon at Fort Mifflin, as quiet as the whisper of patriots on the Boston Common where Americans plotted the revolution.

You can be aware of this message as you read the documents and feel their social and historic meaning.

The documents are on aged looking parchment that looks and feels as old as the cherished originals. To get yours, see the announcement elsewhere in the paper.

Guard Units Changed

THE top leadership of the First Battle Group, 109th Infantry, Pennsylvania Army National Guard, will assume new command positions as a result of the reorganization of the State's 28th Infantry Division to the ROAD concept effective today.

Col. John J. Remetta, Battle Group Commander, will be the Commanding Officer of the Third Infantry Brigade, 28th Infantry Division with headquarters at the Watrous Armory, Scranton. In this capacity, he will be responsible for the administration and training of a Brigade Headquarters Company, and two Infantry Battalions with four units each.

Lt. Col. Coleman J. Nee, Scranton, presently the group Deputy Commander, will become the Commanding Officer of the 2d Infantry Battalion, 109th Infantry with units in Scranton, West Pittston, Berwick, and Williamsport.

Lt. Col. John Chichilla, present group Executive Officer, has been named to head the 1st Battalion, 109th Infantry with units in Scranton, Carbondale, Honesdale, and East Stroudsburg.

Conversion of the Pennsylvania Army National Guard to the new structure follows acceptance of the Pentagon plan by Governor William W. Scranton and approval of the organizational recommendations by the National Guard Bureau and the Secretary of the Army.

The major objective of the ROAD concept (ROAD means Reorganized Army Division) is the ability of the army to tailor divisions to battlefield requirements. The 28th Infantry Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Henry K. Fluck, Camp Hill, will have a base common to all division type organizations in the Army including three Brigade Headquarters, Division Artillery, and other combat and support elements. Combat maneuver battalions — Infantry, Mechanized Infantry, Tank and Airborne — can be added to the division base to fit any type combat situation.

S. U. Majorettes In Baton Contest

FOUR Stroud Union majorettes attended the New Jersey National Majorette competition at Franklin Park High School in New Jersey Saturday.

The competition was a baton twirling contest.

They received third place in dance-twirl team, and will receive medals for the accomplishment.

The girls are Bonnie Sullivan, Barbara Strunk, Janice Werkheiser, and Denise Felker.

Jones Replaces Jones In Post

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Commerce Department replaced a Jones with a Jones Friday in a deputy secretaryship.

Clifford L. Jones, 36, Conyngham, Luzerne County, was named to replace J. Eric Jones, whose resignation from his $16,170-a-year job was accepted Wednesday by the Scranton administration.

3 Arrests Made In Eastburg

TWO area men were released from the Stroudsburg Lockup Saturday and the third retained until today when he will be given a hearing. The trio was arrested Saturday by East Stroudsburg Police.

Released were: Jack Cardwell, 33, of 29 Stoffel St., Stroudsburg, who pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving before Justice of the Peace Chester Staples, East Stroudsburg. Cardwell posted $500 bail and will be held for the May term of court.

Richard Kishpaugh, 44, of 328 Brookside Ave., East Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct before Justice of the Peace Harold Larson, East Stroudsburg. Kishpaugh paid a $10 fine and $9 cost.

Retained for a hearing today is Clarence Nolan, 38, a passenger in the car and who gave his address as 437 Lincoln Ave., East Stroudsburg, is charged with drunk and disorderly conduct.

Police stopped the car at the corner of N. Courtland and West Broad St. when they noticed it was being driven recklessly.

Laurel Diner Broken Into

STATE Police from the Stroudsburg barracks reported last night that the Laurel Diner, Route 611, Tannersville, was broken into sometime during the early hours Sunday morning.

Person or persons unknown broke into coin operated machines and stole an undetermined amount of change from the machines. The investigation will continue today.

State Draws Up Smoking Plan

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state drew up some preliminary recommendations Friday on how best to inform school students of the "health problems caused by smoking."

The suggestions were made by a special planning committee on smoking and the health of youth, jointly headed by Health Secretary Charles L. Wilbur Jr., and Public Instruction Superintendent Charles H. Boehm.

The committee concluded that student debates and student-led discussions on smoking and health should be included in school assembly and classroom programs.

Two Car Accident Investigated

STATE Police from Stroudsburg barracks Saturday investigated a two car accident in Saylorburg. They reported no injuries.

Police said a car operated by Phillip P. Wismer, 21, of 137 Lee Ave., Stroudsburg, had stopped on the highway to allow the car in front of him to make a left turn when a car operated by John P. O'Brien, 42, Minersville, crashed into the rear of the Wismer vehicle.

State Police estimate damages at $500 to the Wismer car and $300 to the O'Brien vehicle. They will continue the investigation today.

National Solvency

The President's proposed budget, which is by far the most important domestic matter Congress must deal with, envisions spending in the $100 billion plus area. If, with it, the also-proposed presidential tax recommendations were adopted, the deficit would be the largest in history, including time of hot war.

This, to the program's supporters, is apparently a problem of relatively small significance — everything will take care of itself and business stimulation resulting from reduced taxes will on some vague future day take care of all the deficits. They seem to reason that greater spending, lower taxes, a Welfare State, and the ultimate in military readiness will go neatly into a reasonable package.

Arthur Krock, the veteran New York

Times columnist, who can hardly be termed a black reactionary, writes: "Item by item the budget reflects the weird and incessantly disproved economic theory that government can bestow all these material benefits without a grim reckoning at any time in the future. It is the death of a viable economy that is risked by the items which pile on the billions."

Views similar to this could be quoted from a very long list of people, newspapers, organizations and groups, representing the whole spectrum of social, economic and political opinion. The question of how a nation—any more than a family—can keep on indefinitely spending beyond its income and survive financially has not yet been answered.

Opinions Of Other Editors

A New State Constitution?

The Major Roadblock to responsive, efficient State Government is Pennsylvania's archaic Constitution. The longer we report and comment on the needlessly tortured processes of government here in Harrisburg, the more deeply we are convinced of this.

To preach this sermon to the Pennsylvanians rallying here today under the auspices of the Citizens Committee for State Constitutional Revision and 10 endorsing statewide organizations, is to preach to the converted.

Be that as it may, it is these public-spirited Pennsylvanians and the many others like them throughout the Commonwealth who must carry the burden of winning a Constitutional Convention.

They and all the rest of us will look to Governor Scranton for leadership that must be forthcoming, and which he already is demonstrating with his anticipation call for a referendum on a convention this November. But it is in the hundreds of communities that the new constitution campaign, an educational campaign, must be waged by interested Pennsylvania citizens.

A new Constitution is not a partisan issue, and it must not become one. Democratic Governor Lawrence pointed last year at partisan politics as probably the major cause for failure to achieve constitutional reform in the past and warned that "this is precisely the atmosphere which must be avoided at all costs."

Republican Governor Scranton now carries this same nonpartisan banner which all his recent-year predecessors have carried before him, and there is good cause to hope that his Administration and Pennsylvania's many citizen advocates will succeed in bringing about a new Constitution this time. If there is one major governmental advance Pennsylvania must make, surely this is it.

Crops Without Plowing

President Kennedy recently mentioned the "agricultural revolution" as one of the prime causes of the worsening unemployment situation. He is, of course, right. But the "crop management" that Secretary of Agriculture Freeman advocates only serves to aggravate a problem of farm labor displacement that has been with us ever since McCormick invented the reaper.

The effort to "manage" crops by controlling the planting acreage or by rewarding the farmer by guaranteeing him a fixed sum of money for a given number of bushels, some of which remain in government storage bins, may temporarily solve the problem of the agricultural price level.

The farmer, still trying to make his individual business as profitable as he may, responds to the planting limitations by trying to harvest his per acre yield with the least expenditure of cash and labor hours.

The pressure from Washington to limit the amount of corn or wheat coming to market brings an almost fiendish cleverness into play in this matter of getting rid of expensive farmhands and in obtaining bigger yields from reduced acreage.

I keep up with these things at the cost of scaring myself half to death every month when my copy of the "Farm Journal" arrives. This month three are two spine-tinglers in the "Journal" that President Kennedy, if he wishes to sleep well, had better not take to bed with him.

One article tells the farmer how to pick the right chemical to use on his particular soil as a "pre-emergence weeder." The second article, one on "Corn Without Plowing," explains how a single dose of weed-killing chemicals applied to a corn field in the spring does away with the need to plow and to harrow and to cultivate.

You simply throw the "pre-emergence weeder" on plain, ordinary soil, then you plant the corn, and then, come autumn, you harvest a 100-bushel per acre yield. It's all done in three motions, and there's no work in the hot months!

A Department of Agriculture scientist, Warren C. Shaw, explains the resulting displacement of farm manpower blithely. "All we do," he says, "is substitute chemical energy for mechanical energy." According to Ohio Experiment Station scientists, the labor-displacing virtues of "pre-emergence weeders" have already been proved in rather extensive practice.

"We've averaged 107 bushels where we planted in killed but undisturbed soil on silt loam soil—the same as corn made on sod where we plowed and disked," says Ohio experimenter G. B. Triplett, Jr., "and no-tillage corn planted in old corn stalks on silt loam soil yielded 100 bushels—three bushels more than where we plowed under the old stalks."

Thus the back-breaking tyranny of hacking at clods disappears from the American farm. But also: exit the farm laborer!

The "pre-emergence weeder" chemicals go by such designations as 2, 4-D, which strangles broadleaf weeds at birth, and atrazine, which kills soil and grassy weeds. Other weed killers are delonon and linuron.

No doubt the partisans of "organic" farming will soon be earthworms, destructive of a proper balance of corn vitamins, and ruinous to the structure of humans. But this, even if true, will not keep the average farmer from using them. Chemicals, on the farm, are here to stay.

The use of "pre-emergence weeders" is merely one manifestation of a phenomenon that must, eventually, force the government to choose between totalitarian controls for agriculture and a phased return to the free market. Partial "crop management" pushes the cleverer and the richer farmer into devising all sorts of ways of getting more for less expenditure of effort from a "controlled" acreage.

Meanwhile the gap between the poor farmer and the rich and resourceful farmer widens. The poor farmer sells out to the rich farmer who can afford chemicals. And the number of ex-farmers seeking employment in the city mounts.

The best thing for the long pull in agriculture would be to have government accept the inevitable, as happened in the coal industry when the Guffey control act was outlawed.

Accepting the free market price, the coal mine owners scrambled to re-establish their profit margins by automating to the hilt. This put miners out of work.

But the problem of dealing with unemployment that results from automation can be handled successfully in only one way: by creating new industries and services to soak up the displaced men.

'This Is Getting Monotonous'

The Pennsylvania Story

'Hard Line' Approach

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — The "hard line" approach on the part of the Scranton Administration is becoming more evident with each passing day.

This in itself is somewhat interesting inasmuch as prior to his election as Pennsylvania's new chief executive last fall, adversaries were strongly painting a picture of Mr. Scranton as one of softness and one prone to give in to pressures should he be elected Governor.

Others too outside of the "adversary" classification felt the same way — looking upon Mr. Scranton as a potentially "weak" chief executive.

Before he has completed his four-year tenure, the story may well turn out in this vein — but from indications in these early months of his administration, it quite definitely isn't the case at the moment.

Curiously perhaps, Governor Scranton seemingly has not only avoided the "weak" course but also has sidestepped the standard middle-of-the-road path.

Just how this is developing is perhaps best illustrated by two current incidents.

The first revolves around the highly controversial (and obviously politically explosive) issue of what is to be done about strip mining backfilling. Conservationists, naturalists, sportsmen and those simply seeking just plain beauty in landscape have been clamoring vigorously and bitterly for tougher backfilling legislation than now stands on Pennsylvania's statute books.

On the other hand the big industrial interests and the strip mine industry itself is fighting any tougher course with every coal shovel at their command.

Backfilling of gouged land as specified in the administration legislation now pending in the Legislature would not only be costly to the operators but in some instances may well force marginal operators out of business.

With Republicans notoriously snug in the corner of Pennsylvania industry (according to Democrats) the almost natural assumption would be that Republican Governor Scranton would be one to bow to "industry" interests.

Either Mr. Scranton forgot to remember the Republicans-for-industry tenet so vigorously nailed on their shoulders by opposition Democrats — or he's determined to run the show on the "hard line" format.

We're more inclined to believe the latter is the case.

The simple fact is that when a representative group of strip mine operators called on him recently to request a modification of his stand on the issue, they came away with some bleak, tough news for themselves — Mr. Scranton was standing pat!

The hard line has been evidenced in another instance — this time on the labor front where organized highway workers have been protesting the outright firing of employees on the part of the administration, claiming among other things that the administration (via the State Department of Highways, that is) has ordered dismissals in many instances on the basis of union affiliation.

One-day walk-outs on the part of remaining highway workers in scattered counties throughout the state in protest over the dismissals now going on — plus conferences between union officials and department officials — have produced nothing; nothing, that is, other than more specific evidence of the "hard line" approach being adopted by the Scranton Administration!

The hard line is a difficult one, a tough one faced with all sorts of possibilities of repercussions from a political standpoint.

The "soft line" approach provides for simply giving in to the strongest pressure group. The "middle line" approach (the course usually used by politicians) is an outright straddle between the two extremes.

So far Pennsylvanians are witnessing the "hard line" approach on the part of the Scranton Administration — a "line" well worth watching closely in the months to come!

The Allen-Scott Report

TFX Reasoning

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — The TFX airplane inquiry could end suddenly if Defense Secretary McNamara decides to say in public what he told the Senate probes privately.

Senator John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman, has opened the way for this compromise by offering to wind up his explosive Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee hearings if the Defense Secretary would do just that.

His face-saving proposal was made in a private meeting with the Defense Secretary, but the offer has the support of a majority of committee members. McNamara, scheduled to testify a second time later this week, has neither accepted nor rejected McClellan's offer.

Specifically, McClellan is proposing that McNamara repeat publicly an earlier private statement that his major reason for awarding the $6.5 billion airplane construction program to General Dynamics was to give it the financial help it needed to keep its facilities as part of the nation's defense production base.

In his first talk with McClellan, McNamara stressed this as his major objective, but later when he testified, he neither mentioned this reason nor included it in any official presentations to the committee.

McNamara based his justification for the contract award on the claim that the General Dynamics plane would be more suitable, and in the end cheaper and better able to meet the requirements of a single tactical supersonic aircraft for all services.

All three arguments were in direct contrast to the findings of a panel of Air Force-Navy experts.

They ruled that the contract should go to the competing Boeing Company, contending that the firm had submitted a lower price and the performance factors of its proposed aircraft were substantially higher.

Making The Offer — In their private confrontation last week, McClellan reminded McNamara of his original statement and the reasons he gave for making the award, adding:

"If you will document the economic-defense reasons you gave me for awarding the contract, and make a statement before our committee that can be released publicly, I see no need for continuing these hearings. I can arrange to have you testify before the committee next week."

On that note the meeting ended. McNamara did not give a reply.

The inside reason behind General Dynamics' financial problems was aired on the Senate floor in a little-noticed exchange between Senators Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Carl Curtis, R-Neb.

In defending Secretary McNamara, Symington told the Senate:

"The fact is that General Dynamics Corp., due in part to the success of the Boeing Company, lost more money to the best of my knowledge than any company ever lost on a program in the history of the free world. That is sad but true, and is partly attributed to the superiority of Boeing's 707 and 727 commercial jet aircraft."

Note: The controversy over McNamara's defense policies is far from over, whatever the final outcome of the McClellan inquiry. The Senate Armed Services Committee will soon make headlines by airing McNamara's decision permitting Russia to widen the anti-missile missile gap.

New Approach — Senator Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, is going to introduce a revolutionary bill this week that would, for the first time, require the Federal Housing Administration to give protection to the home buyer as well as the bank that lends the mortgage money.

His measure, which will have a dozen co-sponsors in the Senate, will provide that the FHFA correct any major defects that show up in an "FHA-insured" home within three years of its completion.

At present the federal housing laws do not protect the homebuyer against shoddy construction that escapes original FHFA inspection.

Under Gruening's bill, builder of one-to-four family dwellings insured by the FHA would be required to post bond to cover the costs of correcting major structural and other defects that appear after the house is completed.

Heretofore FHA insurance (homes has meant only that a lending bank is assured by the FHA that it will get its money back if the borrower defaults.

Private Showing — The Supreme Court is now screening controversial moves in strip privacy. Behind closed doors the Justices will watch the film "The Lovers," which is before the Court on an appeal from obscenity ban in Ohio. The private showing was arranged at the Justices' own request by the makers over their semi-private viewing of "Lady Chatterley's Lover." . . . President Kennedy is telling White House callers that he has high hopes of keeping cuts in his $4.9 billion federal aid program down to less than $500 million. Congressional leaders do not agree with the estimate.

Deanery Meeting Is Set For April 27 In Scranton

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the annual Diocesan Council of Catholic Women's convention to be held Saturday, April 27 at the Hotel Casey in Scranton. Mrs. Thomas Burke of Carbondale is president of the Scranton Diocesan Council.

The Northeastern Luzerne Deanery Council will be hosts at the convention with its president, Mrs. Frank Nadwady serving as general chairman. Each parish unit affiliated with the council will have a delegate or alternate at the convention which is open to any Catholic woman of the diocese. Cards should be returned by April 15.

The election of five directors-at-large will be one of the main items of business at the convention. Miss Marie Fisher, Nanticoke is chairman of elections and will have on her nominating committee one representative from each of the nine deaneries.

Present directors-at-large who will end their two year terms are Mrs. Edward Donohue, Scranton and Lower Lackawanna; Mrs. George Racho, Southeast Luzerne; Mrs. James Cummings, Pike and Monroe; Miss Anna Mason, Bradford Sullivan and Mrs. Joseph Hoffman, West Luzerne.

Rev. Thomas E. McCann is spiritual moderator of the Diocesan Council.

Mrs. Dixon Wins Sewing Award For Second Year

Mrs. Lyle A. Dixon, a member of the Junior Woman's Club of Stroudsburg, for the second year in a row took second place honors in the district sewing contest sponsored by the Pennsylvania Federation of Woman's Clubs.

The district judging was held at the Hotel Sterling in Wilkes Barre with the clubwomen modeling the costumes they had created around the theme, "Ideal Costume for a Clubwoman's Wardrobe." They were judged on workmanship, appropriateness, becomingness and overall fashion effect.

First place in the contest was won by Mrs. Joseph Schneider of the Factoryville Woman's Club.

Another area contestant in the Hallmark Art Contest which followed the luncheon was Miss Donna Lee Bartleson of South Sterling, student in the South Wayne High School, sponsored by the Greens-Dreher Woman's Club. Donna's was a third place winner with an oil painting, "The Deep Fishing Hole."

Soroptimist Club Makes Spring Plans

THE Soroptimist Club of Monroe County held a combined business and dinner meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Thursday evening March 27 with President Stella Shade presiding.

Plans for a rummage sale were discussed with the time and place to be announced later.

The committee for the birthday dinner in June announced that plans were going along nicely.

The centerpiece was in keeping with the Easter mode—huge white ceramic rabbit on a bed of straw flanked by plastic eggs and a basket of spring flowers on either side. Decorations were in charge of Mary Taylor and Beth Stevens.

Betty Novack gave a report of the Soroptimist workshop in Philadelphia recently. She said it was one of the most informative and inspiring workshops she had ever attended. President Shade also attended.

The president reminded the girls of the Conference to be held in Syracuse in May and hopes for a good delegation to attend.

She announced that the next meeting would also be a combined business and dinner meeting due to the fact that the regular business meeting falls on Holy Thursday.

Program Chairman is Mrs. Russell Brush, who is being assisted by Mrs. Richard Price and Mrs. Harold Kreck. In charge of the Committee on Prizes are Mrs. Paul Miller, Mrs. Roebeling Gravel, Mrs. Donald Biles, and Mrs. George Huguennin.

Dessert will be served at 8:00 p.m. and will be followed by Cornelia Stabler Gillam's character sketches, and the Club suggests that those planning to attend should arrive promptly in order not to miss any of the party.

There is no charge for the party, but reservations must be made no later than noon of April 1, with either Mrs. Harold Kreck, 595-7429 or Mrs. Richard Price 595-2819.

Chairman of the Hostess Committee is Mrs. Leon Meyung, with Mrs. James Manhart, Mrs. Arthur McCambridge, Mrs. Robert Sengle and Miss Barbara Carlton assisting.

50-Mile Hike Fad Reaches Into Iowa

The 50-mile hike fad has no geographical limits from Washington, Iowa, Mrs. Ora Woodling received a newspaper clipping of a 50-mile hike undertaken by high school students there.

Among the three who finished the hike was Ronald Gregory, who is the son of Dr. David Gregory, Mrs. Woodling's nephew. Dr. Gregory, a veterinarian, is a former resident of Monroe County, was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in the class of 1932. His son, Ronald, is 15½.

There were 8 boys who started the hike. The three who finished did it in 16 hours, and found their greatest difficulty in heavy traffic and soft shoulders on the road. Ronald is also the great nephew of Norman Gregory, East Stroudsburg.

TLC Council At Fontanella's Wednesday

The TLC Council of Republican Women will meet Wednesday morning at 9 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Mervin F. Fontanella in Swiftwater. Members are asked to bring any American flags or red, white and blue bunting to be used in decorating for the regional meeting of Young Republicans at Split Rock next weekend. Items will be labeled for return.

Mrs. Frank Faulk of Tobyhanna is serving as telephone chairman for the council, and will name a committee to call members for meetings and special events.

The council is open to any registered Republican woman. Coffee is served from 9 to 9:30.

Spanish Conversation Group Meets Tomorrow

The Spanish Conversation Group which will meet for the first time on April 2 will receive an assist from two young people attending East Stroudsburg High School. Celeste Rossi, who studied in Mexico as a Rotary International Exchange Student, will be accompanied by Miss Martha Aviles, an exchange student from Los Mochis, Sinaloa, Mexico, who is now staying with the Rossis and attending high school here.

Celeste will bring slides of Mexico and some Mexican records which will form the basis of conversation—in Spanish, of course.

Miss Leni Elsemann who teaches Spanish in East Stroudsburg High School will be the leader of the group, which is

SHOPPER

Like Old Man River, our 88th Anniversary Sale keeps rolling along. Today begins the last six days, so don't delay if you need Easter apparel for any member of your family. There is still a 10% markdown on EVERY dress in our Wyckoff second floor Fashion department; there is still a 10% discount on all shoes, men's, women's and children's. There are still some excellent buys on Arrow short sleeved shirts at 2.88 and 3.88, and reduced prices on handsome sport coats for men. Every department of our store offers exciting values—so shop early, shop late, shop often. Wednesday and Friday evenings we will be open until nine, with a special platter Wednesday evening in the Tea Room. See you then?

A telephone call comes from a customer who asks me, "Where were those scissors made that you are selling at 2 for 3.00 on your Notions department?" A coincidence that I should know the answer!—but I do. They were made in Italy, as I discovered just a few moments ago when a customer on the selling floor asked the same question. What's more, their sharp edge is guaranteed for two years. . . . Looking over the racks in our Linerie department, I discovered two adorable dusters marked down to 1.99, and the news was too good to keep. I took them upstairs to show Dottie Dunn and Betty Winkelman, two girls who feel, as I do, that a duster is just about the most comfortable thing you can put on at the close of a work day. Each purchased one—Dottie chose pink, Betty took green. Cora Albertson tells me I am one of her best salesmen. I appreciate the compliment but what about the commission? . . . In our fabrics department, I had a wonderful time sorting over a tableful of remnants. I don't sew—but I do appreciate all the various types of cloth, and the many mad-but-beautiful color combinations. On the table where much more expensive fabrics are marked down to 59c a yard, there are "the makings" of many an unusual blouse, skirt, dress, or stole. Darn it, I DO wish I were handy with a needle. . . . And have you noticed how attractive our Fabrics department girls have been looking in their cotton knit dresses? Dick Kishpaugh gave them each material for a dress with the stipulation they make and wear it at the store. They were delighted to comply. Some chose solids, some prints. Some lined 'em, some didn't. Ann Reuhlmann even made hers wrong-side-out because she preferred it that way. It's a soft, mossy green. These knits are all the rage this Spring, and 'er sale price per yard is 88c for the single knit, 1.88 for 'er double. . . . Those of us who love knits and do not sew, head for the Linerie department where we can buy charming shifts for only 3.98. I was wearing one the other day when two women at the Fountain asked me if my dress came from Wyckoff's. I said yes, adding that we had just received another big shipment of glorious Summer shades and prints. They purchased two. Have YOU seen these shifts? They offer a grand opportunity to really build up a wardrobe of many changes at a very meager cost. . . . Inexpensive too are the newly arrived Janet Lynn culottes of 80 square percale prints priced at 3.98 in the same department. There are two styles: one with cap sleeves, one with short set-in sleeve, sizes 12-20 and 14½ to 24½.

Helpful Home Decorating Hint

Choosing Colors For Painting

If you've joined the fast-growing ranks of Americans who collect art, here are some suggestions from experts for choosing wall paint colors that will effectively display your paintings, as garnered by the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

Wilder Green, Assistant Director of Architecture and Design at the Museum of Modern Art in New York, doesn't think that paintings necessarily have to be hung on white walls. Off-white is always good, he observes, because it is clean, fresh and neutral and permits the painting or sculpture to stand out. But, he suggests, the quiet tone of a dominant color in the painting can also provide a harmonious background.

A painting that is sharp in color, he continues, can be hung very effectively on a dark background. Delicate pastels, though, should not be hung on vibrant colored walls because they will be overpowered by the strong color. An exhibition of architectural drawings by Frank Lloyd Wright was hung on cream colored walls which picked up the cream color of the paper on which the drawings had been executed. But an exhibition of Spanish art was displayed on a dark, rich brown wall in character with the temperament of the paintings and of the Spanish painters particularly.

"Get to know the painting you've bought," Mr. Green advises. "Look at it, study it; come to understand it and take it seriously. It's not just a decoration. Of course, all art is decorative, but art is much more than that."

"You'll want everything around your work of art to emphasize it. This can be done in a variety of ways. The color of the wall on which you hang it is important. Also, the way in which you hang it, the frame, the lighting. Often, painting the ceiling a color can add to the total effect you wish to achieve."

"If you are hanging photographs, black or dark gray are excellent colors to use on the walls."

Still another expert in the field, Kathleen Haven who has arranged exhibits at the Museum of Modern Art, states: "The work to be displayed definitely influences the choice of a wall color. But it isn't necessary to choose the predominant color in the painting and then paint the wall that color. This is a common mistake."

"Bear in mind that color can reflect and extend the mood of a painting or photograph. In a recent photographic exhibit, I wanted to express an optimistic view, so I used a yellow wall. To present a more serious mood, I used a blue wall. To give a natural effect, I used a dark earth brown wall."

Bruno Palmer-Poroner of the East Hampton Gallery in New York City and East Hampton, L.I., says, "The school that I call the lyric expressionist painters have their own luminosity which derives from their understanding of the use of color. A painting in my gallery, for example, 'House of Fire' by Dorothy Heller, is luminous red with a streak of bright yellow. This painting might be attractively set off on a dark brown wall, beige or gray. A brilliant color would conflict with it."

When it comes to a colored background for hanging paintings, these experts agree—it definitely can be used. Mr. Green, in conclusion, has this to add: "Look at what you've bought. Try it out. Test it on various colored backgrounds. Don't think in terms of what anyone else says. Come up with your own individual solutions."

laquer dries very quickly, you must do the lacquering job rapidly and without interruption.

Do not go over any area a second time. When the first coat has dried, sand it very, very lightly with a fine grade of sand paper. Brush off all traces of grit and apply a second coat. Repeat the sanding process and apply a third coat, which should be sufficient.

100,000th Volvo Is Enroute To United States

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. — A milestone in the import history of Swedish-made Volvo automobiles will be achieved in late-March with the arrival of the 100,000th car shipped to North America.

Hans Larsson, president of Volvo, Import, Inc. said the historic car, a 122S four-door sedan, is currently enroute to Los Angeles aboard the Johnson liner, M. S. California. The ship was scheduled to dock about March 20.

According to Larsson, the first Volvo shipped to North America was carried by a sister ship of the California in 1965. During that year, he said, a total of 26 Volvo cars were imported while in 1962, by contrast, the total was 16,000.

Volvo automobiles are imported to the U.S. through Volvo Import,

Inc., headquartered here. Models sold in the U.S. include the P1800, a sports styled car of the Grand Turismo type; the 544, Volvo's all time best seller; and a new 122S series consisting of a two-door sedan, a four-door sedan, and a four-door station wagon.

Since 1960, Volvo has jumped from 10th to fourth in the ranking of top selling imported cars.

Volvo automobiles are available locally at Baylor Motors, 798 N. Ninth St., Stroudsburg.

Where Quality Is First

SPRING is just around the corner and there is still plenty of time to get your home set for the protection against bugs and flies. Eagle combination storm doors and windows have been doing the job for thousands of homeowners at a very low cost.

Joseph G. DeRenzis & Son, 21 North Sixth Street, Stroudsburg, now make it possible for you to have your combination screen storm windows installed for as low as $17.95 per unit with others at $21.95 and $25.95. For combination screen-storm doors, the installed price is $49.50 and $59.50.

For those who desire "something extra in appearance," in a combination screen-storm window, the anodized aluminum windows with the soft velvety look is now available. Also the aluminum windows finished with "baked on" enamel for added beauty.

When buying combination screen storm windows and doors from Joseph G. DeRenzis & Son... you are not just buying a quality aluminum product... you are buying permanent convenience... a lifetime of comfort... and most of all... a piece of mind.

You can relax and have a wonderful feeling, knowing that you and your family's health is protected... their comfort has been provided for... plus year' round convenience... and... you will feel good that you made a sound economical investment.

Joseph G. DeRenzis & Son invite you to come in and see for yourself... no red tape... no gimmicks... or high pressure salesmanship... they just want to show you a quality product at prices you can afford to pay.

Even with the extended payment plan, from the time you call... there will be no "long waiting period" or delayed installation. Your combination screens and doors will be installed within three weeks. Call 421-4690 now for complete details.

While you are calling, ask about the Flexalum Awnings for additional year 'round protection. Flexalum awnings over your doors help keep the hot sun out and your floors dry on rainy days.

Besides having quality combination screen storm doors and windows, Joseph G. DeRenzis & Son now carry a complete line of aluminum hardware... aluminum nuts, bolts, screws, etc. Also weatherstripping and extrusions.

For those who might have been contemplating aluminum siding, Alside aluminum siding (made of Reynolds aluminum) is available in four inch and eight inch widths at reasonable prices with a 20-year guarantee.

In business for more than 10 years, Joseph G. DeRenzis & Son have established an enviable record of not only selling quality products, but superior workmanship and service at all times.

For any problems in storm doors, windows, awnings, siding, the DeRenzis' are more than qualified.

Dr. Goddard Cautions On Spring Fires

SECRETARY Maurice K. Goddard, Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, issued a word of caution today to the residents of Pennsylvania to be careful with trash and debris fires. "Each Spring the State Forest Service is confronted with a rash of 'cleanup' fires in all parts of the Commonwealth. These fires, while innocent enough in themselves, can spread from their container or confined area, ignite nearby grass or brush and destroy adjacent forest land. This is an unnecessary loss and can be avoided by practicing caution."

For most residents of the Commonwealth, weary from battling one of the severest winters in history, the thought of the warm weather and dry winds of Spring will be a welcome relief.

However, this combination of warm Spring weather, dry warm winds and the urge to "cleanup" after the hard winter can be a source of trouble for Pennsylvania's 3,800 volunteer Forest Fire Wardens.

All burning during the Spring cleanup should be confined to the early morning or late afternoon hours. There are two reasons for this: (1) Chances of the fire burning out of control are minimized; and (2) If the fire does happen to get away, help to control it is usually available.

Each Spring much valuable time is lost when volunteers are called to leave their jobs to assist in suppressing a wildfire. This, in addition to the loss to our natural resources, are definite economic losses to any community.

Our forests, water, game and soil are important to our future welfare. You can do your part to conserve them by preventing destructive fires.

Easter Program In Wind Gap

WIND GAP — The American Legion Auxiliary recently announced that it would hold an Easter program in the Gap Theatre Tuesday, April 9, for children of the area between the ages of one and 12 years old.

In other business, five new members were accepted. They were Darlene Buskirk, Beth Ann Olivetti, Joan Minnich, Donna Smith and Marion Smith.

The acceptance of the five new members brought the membership to 219.

The auxiliary will hold a bake sale on April 13 in Jack Williams' Store.

The eastern section luncheon honoring the national and department president will be held May 7 at Downingtown Motor Inn, Downingtown. A testimonial dinner for the eastern vice president, Mrs. Thomas Baker, will be held April 17 at West Chester.

A social will be held April 20 in the Legion Home.

Hostesses for the April 23 meeting will be Jane Getz and Millicent Saverood.

Grass Fire Quenched Sun.

THE EAST Stroudsburg Fire Co. responded to a grass fire yesterday about 2:30 p.m., according to Herman Meinhart, fire chief.

The blaze burned two acres behind the Patterson-Kelley plant in East Stroudsburg. Three pieces of equipment and 12 men responded. The company was there about an hour.

Prizes, Awards Must Be Listed On Tax Returns

PRIZES and awards are generally taxable and the fair market value must be included in gross income on tax returns, Ellis R. Rogers, District Director of Internal Revenue for Scranton, reminded taxpayers today. Prizes and awards which are reportable include, but are not limited to, amounts received from radio and television give-away shows, contests, door prizes, raffles, lotteries and sweepstakes.

Prizes and awards such as shares of stock, building lots, merchandise, and vacation trips to luxury resort areas received by employees, salesmen, dealers, corporation officers, and others are taxable. These awards are usually received in connection with sales contests and promotion programs. Mr. Rogers emphasized that the fair market value of the trip, services, or merchandise received is the amount to be included as taxable income. This is also applicable if the recipient disposes of any such item by gift, or otherwise. However, Mr. Rogers stated that where a taxpayer does not accept an award, the value is not required to be included in income.

Although taxpayers are generally aware that cash awards are taxable to the recipient, Mr. Rogers stated that Internal Revenue is becoming concerned over misunderstanding by taxpayers who have received non-cash incentive awards and who have either omitted or understated their value for Federal income tax purposes. Taxpayers desiring further information about taxable awards may contact the Internal Revenue Service at Scranton, Mr. Rogers said.

Convincing At Gulfstream

Candy Spots' Win Causes Odds Stir

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI (AP)—Kentucky Derby odds are being argued as a result of Candy Spots' convincing triumph in the $114,700 Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park Saturday.

The big unbeaten chestnut colt scored an easy 4½-length triumph in the final test for derby-age colts in Florida and impressed the 23,906 fans who sent him off at 60 cents to the dollar in the 1½-mile feature.

Willie Shoemaker, who made up most of the 12 pounds on Candy Spots, said before the race he was convinced the colt could win the Florida Derby and might win the triple crown—Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Argument On

The early Kentucky Derby line showed Cain Hoy Stable's Never Bend 2-to-1 and Candy Spots second choice at 3-to-1, but Florida racegoers who saw them both will argue long and loud that Candy Spots is the better horse.

Never Bend led all the way in winning the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah by five lengths March 2 in 1 minute, 49 2/5 seconds on a track that is at least 2 seconds faster than the Gulfstream strip this season.

Candy Spots' margin in the Florida Derby was a widening 4½ lengths and his time was 1:50 3/5.

King Toots, second to Never Bend in the Flamingo, was fifth behind Candy Spots and Sky Gem, second to Candy Spots in the Santa Anita Derby, was eighth and last in Florida's version.

Leads With Ease

If that doesn't completely confuse everyone, compare the ease with which Candy Spots went to the front around the far turn and won as he pleased. Trainer Mish Tenney said Candy Spots went to the front sooner than he or Shoemaker expected.

Shoemaker said he hit the colt only once left-handed and "then he really ran his race." Motion pictures showed Shoemaker touched Candy Spots seven times with the whip, most of them right-handed, apparently to keep him from moving in along the rail where Gray Pet was running.

Candy Spots, whose name comes from the splashes of white on his coat, earned $74,700 for his Florida Derby score and pushed his total to $336,812 in winning his six starts. The colt now will be sent to Louisville to await the Kentucky Derby, to be run May 4.

Sharp Pitching

Burdette now has pitched 22 exhibition innings and yielded only one run. The Braves got both their runs in the top of the third on successive singles by Ty Cline, Frank Bolling and Hank Aaron. Two homers by Joe Pepitone and one by Hector Lopez highlighted a 17-hit attack as the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox 10-4 at Saratoga. The Los Angeles Dodgers cut short a Cincinnati ninth inning rally and defeated the Reds 10-8 at Tampa as Ken McMullen drove in four runs with a single and two doubles.

Jake Wood accounted for three RBI on a single and homer to spark Detroit to a 6-3 victory over Minnesota at Orlando. A single to center with the bases loaded in the eighth by rookie Tom Brown drove in two runs and gave Washington a 4-2 triumph over St. Louis at Pompano Beach.

Hook Impressive

Jay Hook fanned nine and allowed seven hits in pitching the New York Mets to a 6-1 conquest of Kansas City at St. Petersburg. Hook, working the whole game, yielded the A's run on Norm Sieben's homer in the third. The Mets now have won 13 exhibition games compared to 12 for the entire 1962 spring season.

Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 4-3 in 10 innings at Clearwater. Boston beat the Chicago Cubs 3-1 at Scottsdale and Cleveland nipped San Francisco 7-6 at San Diego.

In Sunday's other game Houston pounded the Los Angeles Angels for a 9-3 victory at Palm Springs.

Phillies Win

Cookie Rojas singled home Ruben Amaro in the 10th with the winning run for the Phils. Amaro had singled and went to second on a passed ball.

Although his girl friend, actress Marnie Van Doren, was watching southpaw Bo Belinsky was pounded for eight hits and four runs by the Colts to become the losing pitcher for the Angels. Bo worked six innings.

Jerseyite New Naomi 'Ice King'

GIL TITUS of Oxford, N. Y., is the new "Ice King" and winner of the 1963 Naomi Lake Grand Circuit Challenge Cup. The speedy Porsche driver was awarded the cup Saturday night at the annual awards dinner for Naomi Lake ice racers at the Charcoal Hearth.

Skip Miller of Pocono Pines, executive director of the race committee, served as master of ceremonies at the affair attended by more than 40 persons.

In other awards, Ken Gee of Bethlehem, last year's "Ice King," was the first-place winner of the Saab Motor Co. trophy. Wayne Keller of Harrisburg was second; Joe Christ of Bethlehem, was third, and George Sanderson of White Plains, N. Y., fourth.

Bob Hunter of Chester, N. Y., driving a Corvair, won the award for the top compact car of the year.

The Comfort Island Challenge trophy—awarded to the driver who gained the most points without finishing first, second or third in a feature race—was awarded to Christ.

League Scramble

"As for the league it should be a scramble. Los Angeles and San Francisco are well matched. Nobody will run away with it. Cincinnati has a good sound club. We will win more and the Giants and Dodgers are going to have to have a great year to equal last season."

Keane said the things that hurt the Cards most last year were the failures of McDaniel and Sadecki, the injury to Minnie Minoso and the flop of Gotay after the first 30 days of the season.

The Cards have an infield that rates with the best in the league with Bill White (.324) on first, Julian Javier (.263) at second, Groat (.294), the ex-Pittsburgh captain, at short and Kenny Boyer (.291) at third. The reserves will be Dal Maxvill and probably Phil Gagliano (.284 at Atlanta). For the moment, at least, Red Schoendienst remains a coach. The Cards have roster problems with pitcher Larry Jaster, who must be kept, and outfielder Jan Firek, who will count against the 25-man limit even when sent out.

Musial, Flood and Altman, the former Chicago Cub who came in the Jackson deal, will be the regular outfield. However, Keane has Charlie James ready to step into left if the enemy gangs up with left-handed pitching. Duke Carmel, a spring training whiz, appears to have made the club as a first baseman-center field reserve. Minoso, recovered from his series of injuries, also is available.

Gene Oliver is the No. 1 catcher with probable assistance from Carl Sawatski and Tim McCarver who is back from the Army.

Cardinals Have Best 'First Eight' In N.L.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Around the Florida training camps they say the St. Louis Cardinals have the best "first eight" in the National League. The trades for Dick Groat and George Altman strengthened their front line. It remains to be seen if they can close the pitching gap left by Larry Jackson.

Only in left field is there any doubt about the day-by-day lineup. Stan Musial, spry at 42, is the man for the job but nobody can say how many games he will play. Stan hit .330 last season, when he almost won another batting championship and played 135 games. They do not expect him to work as often this year.

'Better Club'

"We are bound to be a better club with Groat and Altman," said Manager Johnny Keane. "Of course, we gave up Larry Jackson. Somebody else will have to step in three every fourth or fifth day. The way we look at it we covered two regular spots for Jackson."

"A year ago we had hopes but a lot of things had to happen. We were hoping for Julio Gotay to make it at short. When he went bad our pitching lost faith in him. Groat won't fold. Neither will fellows like Curt Flood and Bill White."

"Ray Sadecki could be the man to take up the slack for Jackson. Curt Simmons always is good so he has to be in the pitching rotation. Diomedes Olivo is bound to be better in the bullpen than Lindy McDaniel. We are looking for a right handed stopper in relief."

League Scramble

"As for the league it should be a scramble. Los Angeles and San Francisco are well matched. Nobody will run away with it. Cincinnati has a good sound club. We will win more and the Giants and Dodgers are going to have to have a great year to equal last season."

Keane said the things that hurt the Cards most last year were the failures of McDaniel and Sadecki, the injury to Minnie Minoso and the flop of Gotay after the first 30 days of the season.

Gene Oliver is the No. 1 catcher with probable assistance from Carl Sawatski and Tim McCarver who is back from the Army.

Bob Gibson (15-13) still limps a bit on the ankle that was broken last summer, but it doesn't bother his pitching. Ernie Broglio (12-9), sound for once at the start of a season; Curt Simmons (10-10), sophomore Ray Washburn (12-9) and Ray Sadecki (6-8), back on good terms with the management after a stay at Atlanta are the starters. Ron Taylor acquired from Cleveland after a 12-4 season at Jacksonville, also is a potential starter.

Olivo Believer

Olivo (5-1), the 43-year-old former Pirate, will be the No. 1 relief man. Bobby Shantz (6-4), has been looking good. Ed Bauta (1-0) and Bob Dilliba (2-0) have been getting a look for the right-handed relief chores. Keane also gave fast-baller Harry Fanok (12-10 at Atlanta) a whirl at the job. He throws bullets but is wild.

The Cards beat the Dodgers (11-7) and held their own with the Giants (9-9) but they had their troubles with Pittsburgh and Milwaukee. With a break in the bullpen, a comeback by Sadecki and luck in avoiding injuries, this club could go all the way. It also could finish fifth.

Mrs. Archer Tops Women

Pipher Winner Of '840 Classic'

Clarence (Buck) Pipher, Jr., R.D. 1, East Stroudsburg, put together games of 223, 214, and 214 yesterday for a 651 total, more than enough to win the championship of the "840 Classic" with a nine game total of 1847.

Al Schoch, Stroudsburg, came in second with a 1789 total. Schoch scored 556 yesterday and he received the finals high game and match award for the 246 game 671 match on March 24. Kenny Fetherman is third with a 1778 with a 586 score.

Okay Stuckey scored 505 and a nine game total of 1616. Steve Balick, East Stroudsburg, received both non-finalist awards, high game 243 and high match 641. Carmen Archer, Stroudsburg, won the ladies division with a 476 and a nine-game score of 1497. Archer scored the best match in the finals for the award, 523. Mary Fedin, Pocono Summit, is second with a 1455 total for nine games. Fedin scored 497 and gets the award for the best game in the finals, a 199.

Mary German, Stroudsburg, totaled 1415 for third place with a 487 match, and Doris Felencer, Stroudsburg, scored 454 for a nine game total of 1398.

Eileen Stauffer, high match award for a 563 match and Helen Kresge, Stroudsburg, received the non-finalist high game awards for a 244 game.

ESSC Ties Moravian In Scrimmage

BETHLEHEM—East Stroudsburg State College, playing its first baseball scrimmage of the season, committed 11 errors against Moravian here Saturday but still managed a 9-9 tie after 12½ innings.

Warrior coach George Ockershausen used seven pitchers in the contest. Jerry Forrester and Bob Gelatko hurled hitless, shut-out ball for two innings apiece while also recording three strikeouts each.

Moravian tallied only three earned runs, all of them coming against John Petronis.

East Stroudsburg banged out a total of nine hits with Tom Washburn and LeRoy Smith each hitting a double and single. Bill Ambrose and Bill Schnauffer each had a double, also. Moravian hit a total of eight safeties.

Other ESSC pitchers given a look-see by Ockershausen were Bill Lewis, Bob Butterworth, Bill Hoffman and Warren Loney.

Lewis, the starting pitcher of the game and one of the regulars in ESSC's plans for this season, worked two frames and gave up one hit while allowing no runs.

The Warriors open their season next Saturday at Wilkes College.

Attorney General Says:

Results Show Butts Supplied Grid Data

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia's attorney general says results of a state investigation indicate that Wallace Butts, former University of Georgia athletic director, gave important football information to Alabama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant before the Alabama-Georgia game last fall.

Butts' attorney, William H. Schroder, commented that Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook is attempting "to clobber Coach Butts without even giving him a hearing. I think it is most unusual for a so-called impartial investigator to issue a statement such as that released by Eugene Cook."

No Comment

In Birmingham, Bryant's attorneys said the Alabama coach would have no comment. One of the attorneys added, however, "It just ain't so"—a reference to Cook's statement.

Cook gave his views Saturday, almost two weeks after he launched an investigation into charges by the Saturday Evening Post that Butts and Bryant had attempted to rig the Sept. 22 game, which Alabama won 35-0.

The attorney general said he concluded that a telephone call between Butts and Bryant eight days prior to the game was more than casual football talk.

"The evidence, after a thorough investigation, indicates that vital and important information was given about the Georgia team, that it could have affected the outcome of the game and the margin of points scored," Cook said.

Deny Charges

Butts and Bryant both say they have talked by telephone on various occasions about football in general and about interpretation of rules changes, but they deny the Post charges of collusion to rig the Alabama-Georgia game. Butts has filed a $10 million libel suit against the magazine.

Typists were ordered to work over the weekend to complete transcripts of testimony in an effort to get Cook's report ready by Tuesday for delivery to Gov. Carl E. Sanders, who ordered the investigation.

The attorney general said, "The area of investigation concerned with gambling will be left open." He has said his probe has turned up no evidence that Butts or Bryant gambled.

U.S. Senate investigators are seeking to determine if gambling was involved in the game. In Washington, Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee said, "This may be just one part of a facet to our pending investigation of interstate gambling in sports, both amateur and professional."

Butts' attorney, Schroder, said Cook had said he would wait until Monday to receive a written statement on behalf of Butts, who stepped down as coach at Georgia two years ago and retired as athletic director in February.

"It seems, however, that he (Cook) decided to go ahead and make his findings without even hearing from the other side," Schroder said. "Strange indeed."

The attorney added that he had difficulty in "getting Mr. Cook even to agree to talk with Coach Butts in person" regarding the attorney general's statement earlier that Butts had placed telephone calls to persons who had been involved in gambling.

Overheard Talk

The March 23 issue of the Saturday Evening Post quoted an Atlanta insurance salesman, George P. Burnett, as saying he overheard a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant and that Butts gave Georgia football secrets to Bryant.

Baseball Roundup

Burdette Pitches Five-Hit Shutout

Low Burdette, veteran right-hander who is aiming for a comeback with Milwaukee this year, pitched a 2-0 five-hit shutout for the Braves over Baltimore in Sunday's exhibition baseball.

The 36-year-old Burdette worked the full nine innings at Miami and didn't issue a single base on balls. He struck out two and in only one inning did the Orioles get a runner past first base. That came in the third when the Orioles bunched three of their hits but failed to score. John Orsino, who had doubled, was caught at the plate trying to score on Mike McCormick's single to center.

Sharp Pitching

Burdette now has pitched 22 exhibition innings and yielded only one run. The Braves got both their runs in the top of the third on successive singles by Ty Cline, Frank Bolling and Hank Aaron. Two homers by Joe Pepitone and one by Hector Lopez highlighted a 17-hit attack as the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox 10-4 at Saratoga. The Los Angeles Dodgers cut short a Cincinnati ninth inning rally and defeated the Reds 10-8 at Tampa as Ken McMullen drove in four runs with a single and two doubles.

Jake Wood accounted for three RBI on a single and homer to spark Detroit to a 6-3 victory over Minnesota at Orlando. A single to center with the bases loaded in the eighth by rookie Tom Brown drove in two runs and gave Washington a 4-2 triumph over St. Louis at Pompano Beach.

Hook Impressive

Jay Hook fanned nine and allowed seven hits in pitching the New York Mets to a 6-1 conquest of Kansas City at St. Petersburg. Hook, working the whole game, yielded the A's run on Norm Sieben's homer in the third. The Mets now have won 13 exhibition games compared to 12 for the entire 1962 spring season.

Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 4-3 in 10 innings at Clearwater. Boston beat the Chicago Cubs 3-1 at Scottsdale and Cleveland nipped San Francisco 7-6 at San Diego.

In Sunday's other game Houston pounded the Los Angeles Angels for a 9-3 victory at Palm Springs.

Phillies Win

Cookie Rojas singled home Ruben Amaro in the 10th with the winning run for the Phils. Amaro had singled and went to second on a passed ball.

Although his girl friend, actress Marnie Van Doren, was watching southpaw Bo Belinsky was pounded for eight hits and four runs by the Colts to become the losing pitcher for the Angels. Bo worked six innings.

Lakers Top Hawks In NBA Playoffs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Lakers took a one-game lead over the St. Louis Hawks in the finals of the Western Division playoffs of the National Basketball Association by scoring a 112-104 victory Sunday.

The game marked the first appearance of the Lakers Jerry West since Feb. 3, and he responded with 27 points. West had been sidelined with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Both teams were ragged, and scored in spurts throughout the contest. The Hawks rushed into a 6-2 lead at the start, and then fell victim to a slump.

Los Angeles scored the next 16 points and appeared headed for an easy victory.

However, St. Louis found the range early in the second period. The two teams battled on even terms until Los Angeles' superior speed put the game out of reach in the final quarter.

Breakfast Club Bowls Tonight

THREE matches will be played tonight in the Breakfast Club Bowling League at Harmon's Recreation starting at 9:15 p.m.

Al Besocke's Diner vs. De-Pue's Gas Service on alleys 1 and 2; Lackawanna Hotel vs. Joan's Beauty Salon on alleys 3 and 4; and Ye Ole Saylor's Inn vs. Bill Puzio's Bar on alleys 5 and 6.

A NET FULL of a 1,500 fish load is readied for dumping into Saylor's Lake. Stocking of brown, rainbow and tiger trout from six to 22 inches was completed yesterday by members of the Saylor's Lake Fishing Association. (Staff Photo by Shafer)

New Salary Schedule Is Granted Belvidere Teachers

BELVIDERE, N. J. — Efforts to bring salaries of teachers up to the salary schedule were successful, said following the recent special meeting of the board.

The schedule was adopted in September 1961, and a three-year program was proposed in order to put each teacher at his particular level on his schedule, it was reported.

The decision was made at a special meeting on the recommendation of the personnel committee. There had been some discussion as to whether or not it would be possible to reach the schedule this year, or whether the third step would have to be stretched over a two-year period.

At the time the schedule was adopted, board members anticipated state aid in bringing salaries up to schedule standards. The anticipated state aid was turned down by the state Senate.

"Extremely careful budgeting and a minimum need for emergency funds has made it possible for the local board to achieve its goal," Johnson said. "Next school year, 1963-64, will see Belvidere teachers on this schedule which is above the schedule required by state law, and is above the Warren County average," he added.

The schedule provides a minimum of $4,400 for starting teachers and a maximum of $7,300 for those with advanced degrees and 14 or more years of service.

The board reserves the right to withhold increments beyond the New Jersey minimum salary laws in case of unsatisfactory service on the part of a teacher.
